A little about TEX...a sweet, adorable buddy!

Tex is a 5 year old, 50 pound Rottweiler mix who was surrendered by his owner "due to personal problems". In his former home, Tex lived with two adults, another dog, a cat, and had been around children. Tex now lives with his foster family: 2 adults and an older female Rottweiler. And, he goes to Doggie Day Camp.

Tex is trained to use the bathroom outdoors. Overall he is an indoor pup with a moderate activity level and bursts of energy. He goes for walks 2-3 times a day, follows his foster mom around the house all day, and has playtime with his foster dad at night to use up his remaining energy.

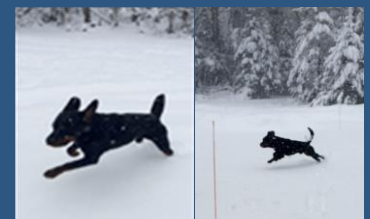

Tex is social with other dogs (see his picture at Doggie Day Camp on the right). He loves people: he gets overly excited when he greets people and he will talk to you to get your attention. Tex prefers to be around people/dogs all the time and has separation anxiety when left alone.

Tex knows a few commands including "Come", "Sit", and "Down". He is working on his kitchen manners (he gets caught counter surfing now and then) and working on his leash manners (he pulls hard, jumps and barks when other people/dogs pass). He is also being crate trained which has been a nightly success!!!

Tex is neither possessive nor aggressive; he will easily give up his toys, treats and food to you... and then just look at you with his adorable puppy eyes. 🐾

Tex would love a forever family who will give him daily exercise, work with him on his minor training needs, and provide him companionship all day.

I love to run really fast!

Check me out at Doggie Day Camp with my friends!
